Jackson and Ford win

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination bolstered by victory in the snow of Massachusetts, turned his attention today to the sunshine of Florida. But for Birch Bayh, Massachusetts may have been the end of the trail.

As Jackson prepared to take on former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in Florida next Tuesday, Bayh decided whether to continue pursuit of his presidential ambitions.

An aide to the Indiana senator said Bayh planned a meeting in Washington today with key campaign aides to decide whether to bow out after a seventh-place showing in a field of eight major candidates.

President Ford, meanwhile, said he was pleased with victory over former California Gov. Ronald Reagan in Massachusetts, where Reagan's name was on the ballot, and in Vermont, where it wasn't.

With 92 per cent of the precincts in Massachusetts counted, Ford had 101,325 votes, or 62 per cent, and 27 delegates, to Reagan's 57,600 votes, or 35 per cent, and 15 delegates.

In Vermont with 94 per cent of the precincts counted, Ford had 25,011 votes, or 84 per cent, to Reagan's 4,617 write-in votes or 16 per cent.

Carter got nearly half the vote in beating two other major candidates in Vermont Tuesday. He conceded, however, he was "overly optimistic" in predicting a finish in the top three in Massachusetts after winning New Hampshire's primary a week ago.

The lineup in Massachusetts with 92 per cent of the state's 2,133 precincts reporting was:

—Jackson 146,663 votes, or 23 per cent, and 30 delegates.

—Rep. Morris K. Udall 112,716 votes, or 17 per cent, and 21 delegates.

—Wallace 111,773 votes, or 17 per cent, and 20 delegates.

—Carter 93,049 votes, or 14 per cent, and 16 delegates.

—Sargent Shriver 48,434 votes, or 8 per cent, and 8 delegates.

—Fred Harris 49,000 votes, or 8 per cent, and 6 delegates.

—Bayh 31,337 votes, or 5 per cent, and 1 delegate.

—Ellen McCormack, the antiabortion candidate, 22,220 votes, or 4 per cent, and 1 delegate.

—Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp 18,970 votes, or 3 per cent, and 1 delegate.

Jackson said his victory in Massachusetts was based on a "broad coalition" of support, but both Udall and Wallace proclaimed triumph, too.

Wallace, who pegged his campaign to antibusing sentiment in Boston, said he was happy with his showing in the only state that voted for George McGovern in 1972. His strongest showing was in the 9th Congressional District, which includes South Boston, scene of most of the city's antibusing trouble.

Udall said his was victory over other candidates he has listed among the party's "progressives."

Massachusetts' Democrats will send 104 delegates to the national convention this summer, based on the popular vote both statewide and in congressional districts. The Republicans will send 43, with the delegation apportioned in line with voting statewide.

No delegates were awarded in Vermont's primary.

For Democrats in Vermont, the lineup with 94 per cent of the precincts counted was:

—Carter 15,236 or 46 per cent.

—Shriver 10,142 or 30 per cent.

—Harris 4,871 or 15 per cent.

—McCormack 3,148 or 9 per cent.

From Washington, Ford said in a statement he was "pleased by the outcome in Massachusetts and Vermont." The White House said the victories showed "the momentum is swinging in the President's favor."

Neither Ford nor Reagan campaigned for either primary, but Ford's committee spent about $200,000 on media advertising in Massachusetts and concentrated on telephone canvassing. Reagan did not set up an official campaign, but advertising he used for New Hampshire's primary Feb. 24 also reached Massachusetts voters.

Ford barely edged Reagan in New Hampshire and the two rivals have their second major showdown in Florida next Tuesday.

On the Democratic side, Jackson acknowledged Florida "is going to be rough, but Massachusetts is the key."

Wallace, campaigning in Miami, said Massachusetts was "a very difficult state" for him. But "whether they like it or not ... I'm running second and they thought I would run last," he said.

Said Udall, "It ought to be plain and clear tonight that if the Democrats in 1976 are to have a wider choice than Jackson, Wallace and Carter, then only the Udall camp offers that choice."

Motorist killed

A Bloomfield man was killed in a one- car accident and a New Madrid man received moderate injuries in two area traffic accidents early today, the highway patrol reported this morning.

According to highway patrol statistics, the fatality was the 15th on Southeast Missouri roads this year, compared to 13 traffic deaths during the same period in 1975.

James Walter Daniels, 65, was killed at 7 a.m. 1.3 miles east of Bloomfield on Route E when his eastbound car ran off the left side of the road into a concrete drainage ditch.

His body was taken to Watkins & Sons Funeral Home in Dexter, where arrangements are incomplete.

One person was injured in a two- car accident at 7:30 a.m. on Route B three miles north of Wardell.

The accident occurred when a westbound car driven by Raymond E. Tanner, 29, of Wardell failed to yield the right-of-way and struck the side of a southbound car driven by Alton Eugene Jackson, 36, of New Madrid.

The Jackson car continued for 214 feet down the road after being struck by the Tanner car before hitting a culvert and overturning.

Jackson received moderate injuries and was taken to Pemiscot County Medical Center at Hayti.

Gas rate hearing set

NEW MADRID — A hearing for the purpose of receiving testimony from the general public in regard to the requests of Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. and Associated Natural Gas Co. for increases in electric and gas rates will be held in New Madrid on April 22 by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The hearing will begin at 10 a.m. in the circuit court room of the New Madrid County Courthouse.

Any person who wishes to testify at the hearing will be given an opportunity to do so.

A hearing at which witnesses forthe companies, intervenors in he case and the commission staff will be presented for cross-examination will be held in Jefferson City on April 26. It will begin at 10 a.m. in the commission's hearing room on the 10th floor of the Jefferson Building.

The two utilities have been ordered by the commission to notify each of their customers of the rate requests as well as the hearing dates. Associated Natural Gas is a subsidiary of Arkansas-Missouri Power.

Arkansas-Missouri Power, which serves several counties in Southeast Missouri, has requested an increase of about $1,270,000 in gross annual revenues for electric service that would raise charges about 10 per cent for residential customers. It has asked for an increase of about $745,000 in gas revenues that would result in about a 32 per cent increase for residential customers.

Associated Natural Gas has requested an increase of about $242,000 in gas revenues in its Butler district, or about 34 per cent for residential customers; an increase of about $678,000 in its Sikeston district that would raise residential rates by about 12 per cent; and an increase of about $66,000 in its Kirksville

Fire damages Holiday Inn laundry room

Fire broke out about 5:50 p.m. Tuesday in the laundry room of Holiday Inn, but was extinguished before any major damage was done.

The fire apparently started when fumes from a solvent were ignited by a gas clothes dryer, according to Fire Chief Vernon Morris.

George Butler, manager of the Inn, said there was only minor damage to a wall. He said the fire consumed some dirty linen that had not yet been washed.

None of the motel guests had to be evacuated from their rooms, according to Morris. Firemen were at the scene for almost an hour.

About the same time firemen were at the motel, a grassfire was discovered behind Ziegler's Superette, 612 W. North St. It was quickly extinguished.

Fire destroyed a shed behind the James Mason house, 225 Young St., about 3 a.m. today, firemen said.

Morris quoted neighbors as saying they had seen children playing around the shed earlier. He said they may have been playing with matches.

All-Missouri cities program planned here

Dan Bollinger, community betterment specialist for the Southeast Missouri area, will present the All-Missouri Certified Cities Program at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Sikeston Board of Education building.

The All-Missouri Certified City Program is a new program designed for communities of 5,000 to 50,000 population. However, any community can use the program design and its different categories in the development of an economic development program.

"Involving basically three phases of action, the program has five categories to work from and is very comprehensive in nature. The program is very well suited to a city the size of Sikeston," Bollinger said in announcing the meeting.

The program is designed to involve people from all walks of life in the actions of a community, and all persons interested in the community may attend the meeting.

Farmer killed

AQUILLA--- Clyde Cartwright was killed this morning in a farm accident on his farm two miles west of town on Route M, the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department said.

Sheriff Ralph Mouser said the department received the call at 9:45 a.m. today and that Cartwright was dead when they arrived.

Cartwright had apparently been working on a tractor when the front end collapsed and pinned him between the tractor and concrete surface.

The body was taken to Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield.

Prisoner escapes

BENTON--- A prisoner being held on a charge of burglary and stealing escaped from a Scott County deputy sheriff at 11:35 a.m. Tuesday.

The escapee, Eliseo DeLeon Cardina, 21, of Sikeston Route One, was arrested Saturday by Sikeston police after he allegedly burglarized a home, and was being transported from the Sikeston jail to the Scott County jail by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman.

Inman left Cardina and another prisoner in the foyer of the jail to check the jail for a place to put the prisoners, and when he returned, Cardina was gone.

The escaped prisoner was described as 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds and having black hair and brown eyes.

He is a Mexican-American from Texas who claimed at the time of arrest he could not speak English, and police had to find an interpreter to question him.

Police said neighbors reported seeing Cardina breaking into the Frank Kiefer home in Sikeston and leaving with something in his hand.

Kiefer later told police a cassette player was missing from the house.

When police picked up Cardina a short time later, the player could not be found.

Landfill improved, but still not up to standards

BENTON— The Scott County Court received a letter this week from James A. Burris ofPoplar Bluff, regional administrator for the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, pertaining to a Jan. 27 inspection in which the county landfill was found to be unsatisfactory in certain areas.

In the letter, Burris listed three unsatisfactory features: The routine sanitary landfill technique of placing a six-inch layer of cover material daily, regardless of weather conditions, had not been done for several days; an old fill area is eroding into waste material; and leachate running out the lower end of the landfill..

Four recommendations were given to correct the problems: The county court should consider some method for financing the maintenance of a proper sanitary landfill operation; see that cover material is placed and compacted daily, regardless of weather; provide that a leachite catch basin and treatment facilities be constructed as required in the original plans; and see that the old fill areas are recovered and planted with a stabilizing grass.

Burris commented further on the land fill operation by saying that although the operation has improved since the last report, it is still not up to standards. The fact that it is sometimes days before cover material is added makes this only slightly better than an open dump. This type of operation leads to problems with

Legislative modernization debate continues

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — While proposed constitutional changes in legislative operations now appear dead for this session, the debate on how to improve those operations has not ended.

The constitutional changes, sponsored by Rep. Joe Holt, D-Fulton, were withdrawn from consideration Tuesday after key recommendations were rejected by the full House.

Because of Holt's action, House Republican floor leader Robert Snyder formally asked today for a hearing and immediate action on his proposal to implement rule changes intended to improve House operations.

The changes proposed by both Holt in the constitutional amendment, that would have needed voter approval after clearing the legislature, and in Snyder's internal rule revisions, which need only House approval, were recommended by a special citizens committee on modernization of the legislature in 1974.

"With the constitutional changes obviously dead, this (the rule modifications) is the only way we can possibly implement any recommendations of the citizens committee this year," Snyder said.

His rule changes were introduced several weeks ago and assigned to the House Rules Committee. But Chairman Kenneth Rothman, who is also Democratic floor leader, has not held a hearing because Snyder never formally requested one.

Rothman has indicated he will hold a hearing if one is sought, but he gave no indication on what action his committee might take on the proposed rule revisions.

The rule changes include a reduction of committees to 25, proportional representation on committees for Republicans and Democrats, creation of a priority committee to speed consideration of important legislation and insuring that all votes of members remain secret until the voting period has ended.

Holt's constitutional proposals were a priority of the House Democratic leadership, and the sponsor indicated there might be a remote possibility of salavaging it by the Monday deadline, but "nothing more than remote."

"I'd hate to say it's dead, but it's dying," Holt said after withdrawing his proposal from consideration. "Right now, it's in such sad shape I wouldn't consider taking it any further."

Even if it could clear the House, its fate in the Senate would be cloudy. A similar measure failed to gain committee approval in that chamber earlier this session.

Holt, who headed a special House committee to incorporate recommendations of the citizens committee into a constitutional proposal, said he withdrew his measure because the House had rejected efforts to reduce its size and stripped provisions that would have given lawmakers more flexibility in their meeting times.

"By action of this House, the resolution has been considerably changed from the way it was introduced and even from the way it was reported by the committee," Holt told the House. His withdrawal of the measure was greeted with a scattering of applause from around the floor.

During the two days of debate on the bill, the House twice rejected efforts to reduce its size from the present 163 members. And action on Tuesday saw removal of a provision eliminating the mandatory adjournment date of June 15 in the first year of an assembly and extending the final adjournment date in the second year from April 30 to June 30.

SOME DESERVED CRITICISM

We agree with President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger in their chastisement of Congress for its failure to support U.S. help to the pro-Western forces in Angola. By refusing to accept the challenge posed by communist military involvement there, Congress has left the impression that the U.S. Government is now all but helpless to repel Soviet military moves anywhere in third world countries. Very heavy psychological damage has been done to the credibility of U.S. power. The futility of our warnings to Moscow to back off stands nakedly revealed.

Holden Roberto, leader of the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA), put it very well when he spoke recently of the failure of the United States to help him. "Are you disappointed in the United States? In the West?" an interviewer asked. "Frankly, yes," came the reply. "Democracies are always one war behind. Detente has become a farce. In compensation for American wheat, technology and economic aid, the Russians and their satellites attack Africa with impunity ... The Cubans and the Russians don't give a damn for detente. For the Soviets, Angola is a fundamental question over which they will not enter into any global deal. They control Somalia. They want to dominate Southern Africa and the ocean routes. And the West, terrified, lets them swallow everything. Peace, peace, peace, for me and war in other peoples countries. After all, you went down on your knees before Hitler, then before Stalin, and now before Brezhne. You are used to doing that."

Bitter words from Angola. Bitter words, richly deserved, we think.

MILITARY THREAT MOUNTING RAPIDLY

Only a fool would ignore the now overwhelming evidence that the military balance of power in the world is swinging rapidly toward the Soviet Union.

Incredibly, our country still seems well supplied with such fools — men willing to go on radio and television, or stand up in Congress, and try to persuade their fellow Americans that all the warnings and statistics are nonsense, that "the Russians are not ten feet tall" and that there is absolutely nothing at all to worry about except "excessive U.S. defense expenditures!"

There is everything to worry about. Every serious study now leads to the unavoidable conclusion: the Soviet Union is engaged in an unceasing and ever accelerating effort to obtain general military superiority over the United States, both in strategic nuclear power and in a conventional military sense.

Item: Published reports in Washington reveal that the Central Intelligency Agency has now concluded that the Soviet Union is devoting approximately twice as much of its gross national product to military efforts as had previously been estimated (perhaps as much as 15 or 20 per cent of GNP instead of 6 to 8 percent).

Item: The non-partisan Library of Congress has produced an exhaustive, 300-page analysis of comparative U.S. and Soviet military capabilities. Among its main points: America's numerical superiority in strategic nuclear weapons has now disappeared. The Soviet Union continues to widen its lead over the U.S. in almost every important category. The former U.S. qualitative advantage in certain high- technology areas is now slipping away. The Soviets now have overwhelming military superiority in Eastern and Central Europe.

Item: An official U.S. Defense Department Report to the Congress, which is presented annually in support of the Defense Budget, declares that military trends in the last decade have been adverse to the United States and that if they continue, the U.S. will not have sufficient military capability for defense, deterrence, and detente in the future.

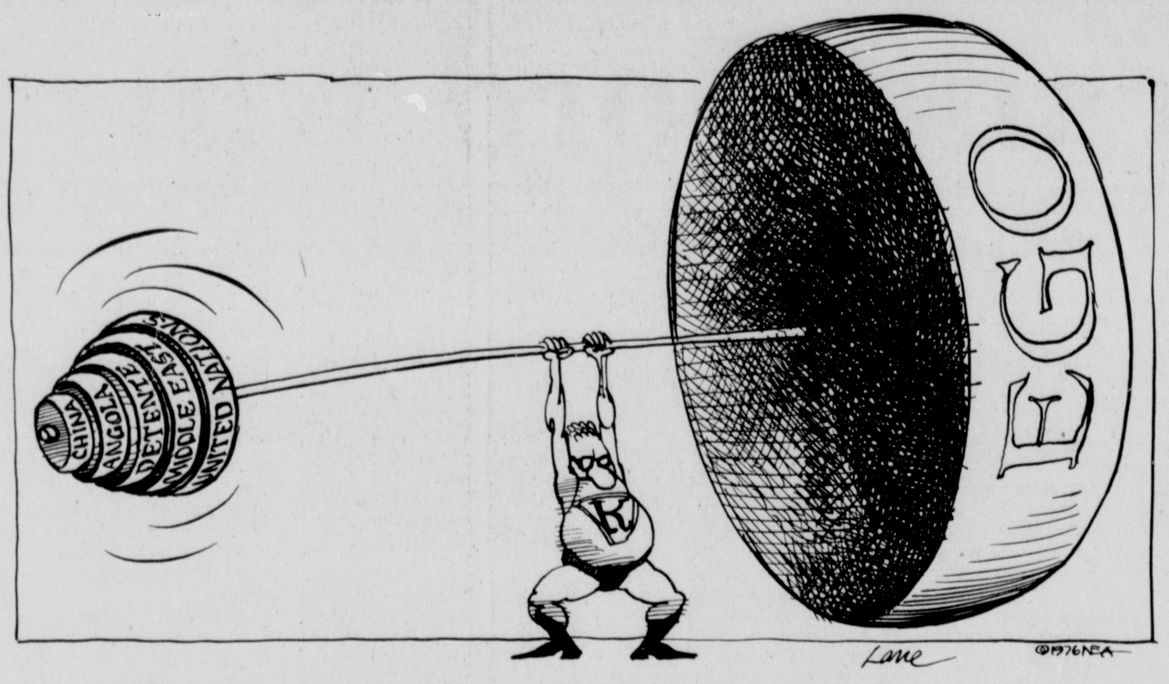

If we ignore this evidence and these warnings then we will richly deserve the fate our enemies are planning for us. There is simply no excuse to postpone any longer facing up to the challenge to our national survival that lurks behind our Bicentennial celebrations. If we want our nation to be free and independent even another decade, then we must step up our defense programs immediately.

MEDIA FAIL TO EXPLAIN COURT RESTRAINT

According to Accuracy In Media (AIM), the pundits of the press have been criticizing Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackmun because he recently permitted a court in Nebraska to continue its restrictions on pretrial reporting of a mass murder case. One of the critics, Tom Wicker who is a columnist of The New York Times charged that the judges were interfering with "the press's function as a check upon the government, including the administration of justice."

But Mr. Wicker and other critics of Justice Blackmun have not explained to their readers just why the restriction was ordered. They probably realize that if they did, those readers blessed with simple common sense would side with Justice Blackmun.

The facts, as we understand them, are simple. The murders were particularly gruesome. The authorities feared that if all the details were known via the news media, it would become very difficult to find jurors who would not have heard of the case and formed an opinion about it. If a jury convicted the accused, the defense would have a strong basis for appealing the conviction on the grounds that pretrial publicity had made it impossible to get a fair trial. Courts have shown a strong tendency to overturn convictions in this ground.

Recently the conviction of William Calley for his role in the My Lai massacre was thrown out for this reason. More recently, a court overturned the conviction of the man who kidnaped Reg Murphy, the former editor of the Atlanta Constitution on the ground that the pre-trial publicity had been prejudicial. This evoked the disgust of Mr. Murphy who pointed out that the accused himself did his best to drup up the publicity. It seems that if an accused criminal can get enough publicity focused on his crime, he has a good chance of beating the rap.

AIM claims Justice Blackmun's critics have not explained what important public purpose is served by publicizing the details of a heinous crime in advance of the trial to such a degree that conviction of the perpetrator becomes virtually impossible. At a time when the public is deeply concerned about soaring crime rates, there ought to be greater concern about any actions which might permit guilty parties to go free.

The Nebraska court weighed the interest of the public in getting all the gruesome details of this particular crime in advance of the trial against their interest in seeing justice done. It decided that the latter was more important. Justice Blackmun, hearing all the facts, agreed.

Some pundits of the press, withholding essential facts about the reasons for the court's decision, are asking the public to condemn the decision simply on the ground that it infringes on the First Amendment. It is ironic that the press, while demanding full disclosure of all the details of the crime, is withholding from the public the reasonable explanation of the court's decision.

Subsequently the Supreme Court heard an appeal filed by the press, and the Court upheld Justice Blackmun's decision.

FORD THOUGHT OF BOND LAST

Undoubtedly Gov. Christopher S. Bond of Missouri is happy that he is among those mentioned by President Gerald R. Ford as a possible vice-presidential nominee, but an examination of the White House transcript indicates it was a presidential afterthought.

Some New Hampshire editors were having a session with Ford when one of them asked if Ford could provide "some idea or a list of people you are considering for vice-president."

Ford explained "we have a wide range of possibilities, but I think it is premature to say that this person or that person even heads the list."

The questioner persisted asking if Ford could provide "four or five names to let us chew on."

"If I start the list," Ford replied, "and then eliminate or don't mention somebody, I think that is unfair to that individual." He went on to note that when asked the same kind of question weeks ago he mentioned Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts. "I said Ed Brooke, for example, is thoroughly qualified. I think Sen. Howard Baker (of Tennessee) would likewise be fully qualified or Sen. Bill Brock of Tennessee or Sen. Chuck Percy (of Illinois)."

Another editor asked if Elliot Richardson is a possibility, and Ford replied "of course." Then another asked if George Busch could be included. The President said Bush was out of consideration because of his proposed assignment as head of the Central Intelligence Agency. After that Ford added, "You have got some excellent governors, such as Gov. (Daniel) Evans of Washington, Gov. (Robert) Ray of Iowa and Governor Bond of Missouri.

"In other words there is a vast potential of outstanding public officials and maybe, of course, some in the private sector who are not elected officers who certainly could be considered for the vice-presidency," Ford concluded.

Nothing was said or asked about Ronald Reagan or Vice-President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

So Ford's thoughts on the subject certainly have not jelled. Baker and Brock are conservatives, Brooke and Percy, liberals. Much will be heard about them because the political analysts know Ford mentioned them first—and they would like to be nominated. Richardson gets special notice because Ford brought him home from London to be secretary of commerce and to participate in the campaign. Richardson is excited about it.

The eagerness to run was summed up by Sen. Bob Dole (R-Kan.) when he was asked not long ago, "what is Senator Baker running for?" Without emotion Dole replied, "anything."

In Jefferson City Bond said he thinks he's one of the "long-shots" on the list of those mentioned as possible vice presidential candidates.

Reacting to Ford's inclusion of him in a list of eight possible running mates, Bond said yesterday that the Las Vegas oddsmaker, Jimmy the Greek would give the Missouri governor less than a "100 to 1" chance of being selected.

But although Bond said he did not think he would be selected to run with Ford, he did not rule out his agreeing to run if asked.

We know in advance a lot of our readers will object to our taking a stand for Ted Kennedy for President in the Democratic national convention. The only reason, we believe, he is not already running is because his family does not want him to, and the Kennedy family is mighty close. Yes, we haven't forgotten he was involved in the death of a girl he was riding with, which could be made into quite a scandal. In the first place, Ted Kennedy stood trial and witnesses for both sides were heard. He was acquitted of all charges. And so far as scandal is concerned, could any be greater than the paron by President Ford of Richard Nixon? All polls show Kennedy is the choice of the people. Let's just say, we're one of the people.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND THOSE WOMEN

We never could understand women, and guess there are few men who can. One day last week our cousin's newspaper at Sikeston carried a story and picture of the 1960 high school graduating class. About half of the graduates were men. All but one of the men were clean shaven, beardless and their hair cut short. The one exception was short and fat with hair all over his face and hanging down to near his shoulders. We were right proud that nearly all of these 33-year-old men wore their hair short. Then we showed the picture to a group of our young nurses. It shocked us that only one picked a short haired man as the best looking, and all the others picked that bearded, hairy fellow.

NEW LOWS

A little more than a year after Richard Nixon resigned from the presidency, reports have been surfacing that he wishes to become a broadcaster.

However, Nixon memorabilia has plunged to new lows, according to a New York magazine.

Tickets to Nixon's 1973 inauguration are worth only 50 cents, and Nixon-Agnew buttons are still considered worthless by professional collectors.

And to top it all off, the wax figure of Nixon in Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum has been moved to the basement.

A NEW SHORTAGE --PRIDE

What do you suppose other nations think of the habit of self-condemnation and criticism of our own U.S. political, economic and social institutions which has become such a universal failing in the United States over the past decade or two? If we do not value our own institutions, how can we expect others to? For years, most of our major industries have been castigated in public for just about every economic and moral crime in the book. Self-proclaimed critics have torn apart our social relationships on the grounds of gross unfairness to minorities and sexual bias. Criticism of our government institutions and loss of public confidence in them has reached a crescendo in the agonizing year of Watergate.

Isn't it time we began putting something back together? American institutions are not that bad. In fact, they are pretty good if compared with those of other nations. Pride in things American on the part of the people of the U.S. is becoming one of the scarcest and most badly-needed commodites in the land today. It would be a ghastly thing if the people of other nations started believing the U.S. is really as bad as its own people claim.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Baiting the Anti-Reds:

Series of U.S. counter-subversive agencies are being methodically ground down

WASHINGTON — Obviously the coyote and the bald-headed eagle are surviving. But what of the truly American endangered species -- the small band of knowledgeable fighters against KGB espionage, against Soviet infiltration of our socio-economic life and against the U.S. based neo-radical terrorists now linked with roving international killer bands?

The pursuit of the skilled anti-Communists is relentless. The harassment, unbelievable. The assault on the FBI has it reeling. This, though former Attorney General Nicholas de B. Katzenbach, a Kennedy protege, now close to the Frank Church Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, wrote congratulatory notes to the late J. Edgar Hoover approving the bureau's now controversial "cointel" (counter-intelligence) program.

Today, the CIA is under the direction of well-meaning amateurs who are blowing its cover as Pat Gray (remember him?) did with solidly successful FBI traditions and practices.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities, which once was used by the labor movement itself to drive Communists from nine of 11 unions, has been wiped out. Police anti-subversive files in major cities are being destroyed under court orders.

And now the U.S. Senate, seemingly caring little, has yielded to Oregon's handsome, six-foot clarinet and piano playing golden-boy, 54-year-old Mark Hatfield. It surrendered to his demands by virtually crippling the Judiciary's subcommittee on internal security. This is practically the only remaining forum for discussion and exposure of today's nihilism -- a global terror which sometimes goes under the name of Castro, sometimes as the Cuban's "proletarian internationalism," sometimes as the weather people and lately as the New World Liberation Front.

It's fascinating to watch this esoteric Senator, who appears to confuse intellectualism with anti-anti-Communism, zero in on the internal security subcommittee. But then, he's so way out he did his masters on "Labor Policies of Herbert Hoover from 1898 to 1928."

Just the other day, Hatfield, the most Kennedyish, Rockefellerian Republican in town, succeeded in slashing the internal security committee's annual budget by a third -- from $295,300 to $195,300. This is what the committee spent during its first year back in 1951. Compare this with the $2.4 million spent by Sen. Church's committee since it began hunting down CIA and FBI agents Jan. 1, 1975.

The Frank Church intelligence committee is another 1001 nights worth of stories. But why is the Senate itself clobbering the internal security committee? Why has it been slashed down to a penny-ante budget which must mean the cutting of hearings, wiping out funds for witness fees, ending travel and the firing of five from its tiny staff?

What are this committee's crimes? It didn't wiretap. It didn't "spy." It researched. Its data saved the Dominican Republic from Fidel Castro's ideological mercenaries and armored brigades. It has exposed Cuba's physical as well as political threats to what's left of Latin and Central American freedom. Look at the record.

As far back as the early '60s, the internal security committee spotlighted the late Ernesto "Che" Guevara as the Soviets' "Comintern rep" in the Western world. This young Argentine doctor was the terror generator of a past generation. He's now succeeded by the lethal terrorist "Carlos" sought by the counterintelligence -- and regular police of Europe.

It was this committee in its study of the Caribbean which disclosed that Castro then -- and now -- has a physical presence in half of Latin America.

And only now that Castro has put a full airborne and armored division into international revolutionary action is the world taking heed. Only in the past few days has it been reported that Castro's new "proletarian internationalism" has hurled troops into Syria, South Yemen, Algeria, Zaire and even little Oman. Look at the map. You'll notice that by attacking the young sultan's troops there, Castro's flying revolutionary army has attempted to crush both Arabs and Israeli opponents of Soviet hegemony in the Middle East.

I could itemize many other internal security committee revelations of conspiracies which only now are alarming the world. This committee has had some of the most responsible -- and I should add cultured and intellectual, specialists on terror and the tracing of the links between the American-based bomb-planting bands and the gangs which have blown up or massacred innocents at peaceful airports.

Why then is the Frank Church committee getting all the funds it needs? Why was it able to obtain money for a staff of more than 100?

Why is Congresswoman Bella Abzug's subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee on Government Information and Individual Rights getting its funding so easily though it's now harassing FBI and National Security agents? After all, they have been ordered by the President of the U.S. not to disclose vitally secret documents.

Apparently the endangered species, now being hunted down, is the anti-Communist who believes that Red fascism is as evil as brown-garbed Naziism and black-shirted fascism. Why are the enemies of totalitartianism being ground down?

A Waste-Full Operation
By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON -- For years, the U.S. Air Force extracted fascinating intelligence from the dust, garbage and even toilet wastes retrieved from Soviet planes.

The story of this unique operation can now be told, because the Soviets have learned all about it. Indeed, they sometimes analyze refuse from U.S. aircraft.

The United States collected samplings from Soviet planes that landed at neutral airports such as Tokyo's International Airport. The Air Force recruited unemployed Japanese intelligence specialists who were able to wangle jobs as ground crewmen.

Although watchful Soviet guards stayed with the planes, the cunning Japanese agents unassumingly took air samples from the tires while checking the pressure. They also collected dust from the wheel wells, dipped oil and gas from the engines and sneaked food, water and plastic ware from the galleys.

These spies in coveralls also absconded with the toilet contents which, incredibly, were frozen and shipped in dry ice to the Wright-Patterson Air Force base in Ohio, along with the other assorted debris.

In the Air Force System Command laboratories there, the strange samplings were painstakingly analyzed for what they could tell about the Soviet oil refineries. The air from the tires contained clues to manufacturing in the areas where the tires had been inflated.

The dust and water gave up intriguing industrial and environmental information. The food scraps and toilet wastes enlightened U.S. intelligence on the health and eating habits of the Russians.

In fact, the toilet raids have become a favorite espionage operation. We have previously revealed how the CIA had used a special drain to triumphantly recover the excreta of the late Nikita Khrushchev during his state visit to the United States. The subsequent analysis helped the CIA diagnose his health.

Intelligence agents also still talk about the eager American spy who gathered up the toilet paper at a Soviet officers' latrine, so an estimate could be made of their physical condition.

In Tokyo, the Air Force made off with the bandages of a visiting Soviet dignitary who had been injured in an auto accident. The dressings were sent back to the U.S. for complicated blood tests.

Like the recovery of Khrushchev's body waste, it was considered a coup.

FORD HITS BACK: In a recent column, we reported that one of the most promising House freshmen, Rep. Harold Ford, D-Tenn., had knowlingly violated the law by using government manpower trainees to do the work that cronies on his office payroll were neglecting.

The story was no sooner off the press than the congressman began screaming to the skies that we had singled him out for attack because he was black.

We have now learned, unhappily, this is his hallmark. In the past, he has called newsmen who revealed his wrongdoings racists, hotel men who wanted their bills paid racists, and businessmen who complained of his bad checks racists.

We believe his constituents are too intelligent to believe his continued wolf! wolf! cries. There was nothing racial about his actions. He got nervous about his payroll abuses himself and quietly asked the Library of Congress for a legal opinion.

In unmistakable language, the Library advised him last September that he was violating two federal laws. Yet he kept the manpower trainees in his office until we revealed the violations and other malfeasances last month.

As it now turns out, we underestimated Ford's disregard for the law. The Labor Department also warned him that he was acting illegally. And he ignored this waring, too.

Moreover, his home town paper, the Memphis Commercial Appeal, following up our story, discovered two more federal trainees working illegally for Ford. One of them turned out to be the Congressman's own sister, Mrs. Joyce Miller.

This would also appear to violate House rules against nepotism. When the paper asked Ford about it, his improbable answer was: "I didn't know she worked in the office."

AUTHOR'S FAST: Last July, we told how famed writer Mihajlo Mihajlov had been convicted on phony evidence and jailed in a dank Yugoslav prison. His real crime: personally infuriating Dictator Josip Broz Tito with unauthorized writings about Yugoslavia.

Now, the 42- year- old author has sent word to us through an intermediary that he is near death from a hunger strike protesting illegal solitary confinement. his typewriter has been confiscated, he says, and he is living on tea, coffee and three-and-a-half ounces of sugar a day.

Mihajlov has been denied visits from his lawyer and is incommunicado except for a half- hour visit from his wife once a month. Without proper medical help, he has told us, he cannot hold out much longer.

Fire damages tool shed

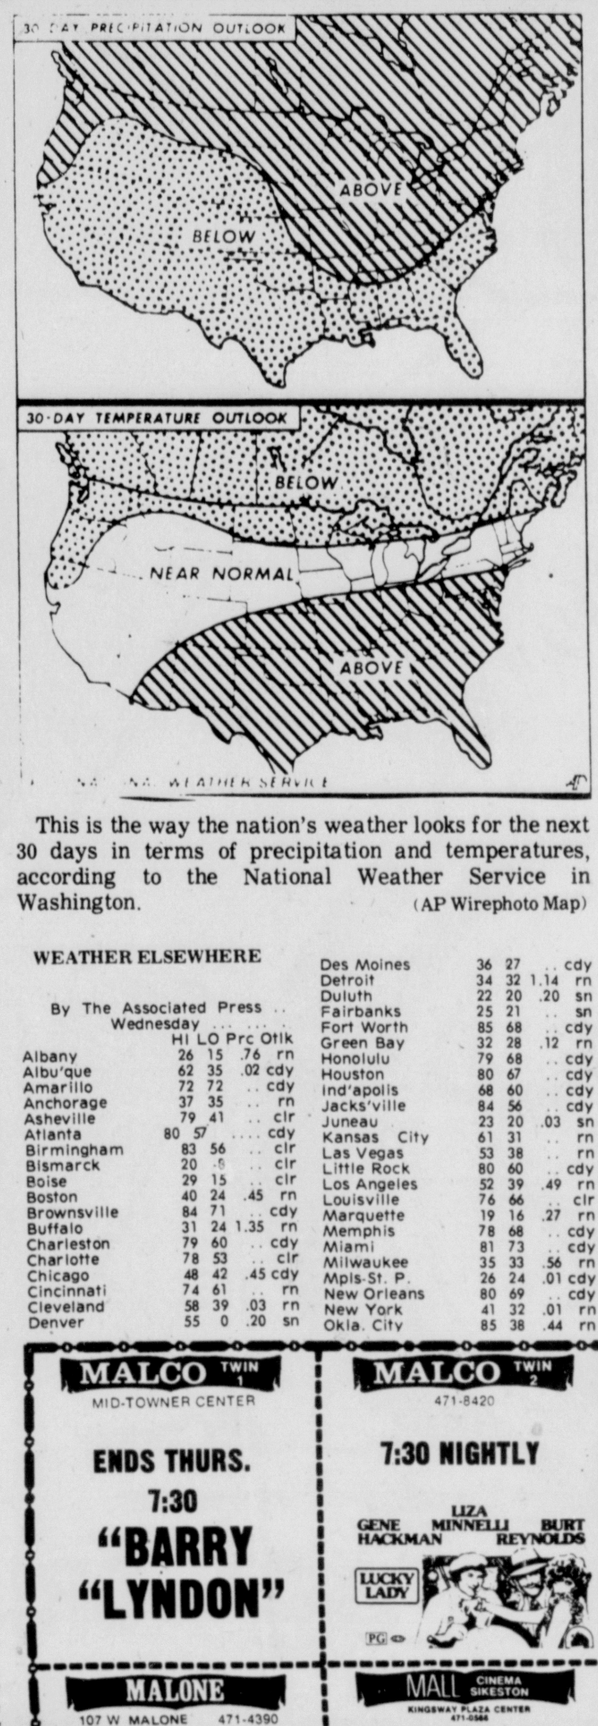

DEXTER — A young motorcycle repairman narrowly escaped serious injury at 11 a.m. Tuesday when a sudden fire in his tool shed on a farm east of town spread flames rapidly through the building.

Charles McCollough said he was working on a motorcycle when it "backfired," starting the fire. The tool shed and repair shop was located in an old barn on the John McCollough property.

Flames spread rapidly, despite the fact that young McCollough used a fire extinguisher to try to fight the blaze. Both the Essex and Dexter fire departments responded to calls.

There was extensive damage to tools and machinery in the shed and the barn, but the building was not destroyed. Young McCollough said he was able to save some of his equipment by moving it out of the shed, despite receiving minor burns on the face and hands. He did not require treatment.

Women truck drivers unite to fight sex discrimination

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bitzy Gomez wants to keep on trucking, but she feels too many knights of the road are still slobs when it comes to sharing a cab with a woman.

After 10 years of fighting off passes in the sleeper beds of tractor-trailer rigs, the iminutive divorcee has formed the Los Angeles Coalition of Women Truck Drivers to counterattack male-dominated unions and employers who regard them as prostitutes on wheels.

"There are so many women out there who think they're the Lone Ranger I just felt it was time we organized for some protection," said Mrs. Gomez. Her efforts are being assisted by the National Organization for Women, which is providing legal help, advertising and initial financing.

Mrs. Gomez said she doesn't know how many women truck drivers there are in the United States. But she said she believes there are thousands "because so many truck stops are installing hair dryers and shower facilities for women."

NOW advertised the coalition for a week in Los Angeles newspapers while Mrs. Gomez posted notices in truck stops. She said about 100 women drivers from all over the country responded.

"All complained of discrimination in finding work and sexual abuse once you get the job," said Mrs. Gomez. "Some union locals just don't want women to join because the men don't like competition. So the tell you to get a letter of hiring from a company. Then the company tells you they only hire out of the union hall."

Women on road tests often find that it becomes a "sleeper test," she added. "You get 20 miles out of town and the guy tells you to put out or get out."

Ann Landers

Reader applauds friend's courage

Dear Ann Landers: Today I learned a lesson I will never forget. I'd like to share this lesson with the millions of people who read your column. It could help make this world a little nicer place to live in.

This friend and I were meeting a third woman for a soda after shopping. When the three of us sat down in a booth of the drugstore, the third party said, "Well, do I have something juicy to tell you about So-And So." She then began to relate a scandalous story about a woman we all knew. It was pretty awful.

My friend stopped her in midsentence and said, "I can't believe there's any truth in it. It's either a gross exaggeration or a serious misunderstanding." With amazing grace, she changed he subject. I so admired her and then thought, "Why didn't I have the courage to say that?"

What a friend! No self-righteousness, no goody-goody phony piety, just an up-front, wonderful person. I'd love to be like her. Do you think I can change at age 55? – Reaching Up

Dear Reaching: Of course you can. All it takes is effort. Wouldn't it be lovely if for just 24 hours, everyone resolved not to say one unkind word about another soul! What a way to cut down pollution!

Dear Ann Landers: I am 12 years old and have been reading your column for as long as I can remember. The letter signed "A Mess With The Ex'es" caught my eye because I saw myself in it plain as day.

My mother and dad divorced six years ago. I haven't seen or heard from my father since they split. The woman who wrote was complaining because her ex-husband's in-laws wanted to see her two kids. She married another guy and didn't want them "butting into her new life in any way, shape or form."

That woman was dead wrong, and I was glad you told her so.

My problem is just the opposite. I wish my grandparents on my dad's side would at least come and see me once in a while. They act like I don't exist and it sure does hurt. Just sign me -- Missing Out

Dear Missing: Here's your letter and I hope your grandparents see it because they are missing out, too.

Dear Ann Landers: When I travel, I enjoy the luxury of having time to think, read or just observe the scenery. I resent being held captive by a garrulous woman who wants to regale me with tales of her magnificent grandchildren, her brilliant son and her gorgeous daughter.

A person with a book in hand is trying to politely inform you he would rather read than chat. He deserves the courtesy of having his request granted. Perhaps he has been involved with people and their problems all day and solitude is something special.

Please, gabby travelers, find someone who wants to talk and have a great trip. Respect the rights of your fellow travelers who enjoy scenery, books and just being left alone. -- Silent Samantha

Dear Sam: And then there are those of us who must work on planes -- like read a few thousand letters. We'd love to visit but we can't afford the luxury. Thanks for the assist.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teenage Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Supreme Court told '74 law leads to more federal control

WASHINGTON (AP) — States, cities and counties told the Supreme Court Tuesday that a 1974 law which extends federal wage regulations to their employes could lead to unbridled federal control of local government.

A decision upholding the law "would strike down the last barrier preventing intrusion of Congress into the powers of the states and localities," Gov. Calvin Rampton of Utah told the court.

Rampton appeared on behalf of the National Governors Conference of which he is the immediate past chairman. Court officials said it was unusual but not unprecedented for a governor who is a lawyer to argue before the court.

Solicitor General Robert Bork agreed that Congress should not be allowed to infringe on state policy making, but argued that the 1974 act does not do that.

Bork came under sharp questioning from the bench with Justice Lewis Powell Jr., observing at one point that a ruling upholding the act might "destroy federalism."

"I am concerned whether if we decide for the government, there will indeed be any limit to how far Congress can go," Powell said. "Give me the power of the purse and I control you. I think that is inevitable."

Bork argued that the law is constitutional because it does not impose any requirements on state and local bodies that the federal government does not impose on itself.

"The federal government, without destroying itself, can never destroy federalisms," he told the court.

Bork said the court might "have to draw a line somewhere" if Congress continued to expand its authority over state affairs.

"What if it's little by little, bit by bit?" asked Chief Justice Warren Burger. "What do you do? Add it all up?"

The court was hearing arguments on the case for the second time. It was argued last April 16, but a little over a month later the justices announced they wanted to hear more arguments.

The extension of federal overtime and other work regulations to nonsupervisory state and city employes has been held in abeyance pending a decision in the case.

In 1966, the court upheld an extension of the act to employes of state-owned hospitals and schools. Last year, it ruled that the application of federal wage controls to state employes is constitutional. Bork argued that if these laws are constitutional, it follows that the 1974 act is also.

Charles Rhyne of Washington, arguing for the local governing bodies, disputed Bork's contention that the act does not intrude into policy.

"What is policy except the spending of money?" he asked.

Rhyne said that the $2.30 per hour minimum wage, plus overtime and other provisions, would cost state and local governments more than $1 billion dollars per year.

Bork disputed these figures and said a government study showed the cost would be $410 million.

The states and cities maintain that their employes are beyond the reach of such regulation because they are engaged in sovereign governmental functions and not in interstate commerce.

They say the regulations would work a particular hardship in the case of fire and police departments.

Rampton noted that Congress has not extended the wage and hour provisions to members of the armed forces.

State Senate vote listed for week of Feb. 23-27

Legislative action

In the Senate:

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A move to decriminalize public drunkenness and the continued argument over revision of the state's criminal law system dominated Tuesday action in the Missouri Senate.

The upper chamber included in its extended debate on the criminal code revision package a provision which requires faster trials for pending cases, another addition which sets the cutoff for felonies at $100 and one which would protect homing pigeons used in races.

The attempt at decriminalizing public intoxification failed on a 14-16 vote after the second day of discussion. Sen. Larry Marshall, sponsor of the amendment, said alcholism is a disease which cannot be treated effectively in city and county "drunk tanks."

The Columbia Republican's attempt to include the amendment in the criminal code measure failed when the author of the code revision, Ike Skelton, said Marshall was trying to "piggyback" the drunk measure on to the entire revision package.

"We shouldn't shoot from the hip on this issue, it should be a separate bill and go through the committee process," the Lexington Democrat said.

The speedy trial provision requires a person must be brought to trial within 120 days of his or her arrest or within 160 days if a release on bond is granted.

Delays for physical inability to stand trial, or requests for delays by the defense or prosecuting attorneys to gather additional evidence would extend the date of the trial for 60 additional days.

Reacting to the increasing medical malpractice insurance costs for doctors, the Senate also tentatively approved a measure which extends the two-year statute of limitations in malpractice cases to all those over six years of age.

"Swift justice is needed today," Sen. Franklin Payne, author of the amendment, said. "Too often someone out on bail for over a year commits crimes because of the slow justice system or someone who is innocent is detained too long because he can't raise bail."

Stealing anything over $50 is currently considered a felony, but inflation has caused the Senate to increase that figure to a $100 level.

Sen. James Conway, D-St. Louis, unsuccessfully proposed an amendment to the 283-page measure which would have reduced stiff penalties proposed for crimes involving firearms.

Under the proposed changes, a judge could impose an additional 30-year sentence for anyone convicted of committing a dangerous or persistent crime with a firearm.

Conway objected to the additional sentencing, calling it "unreasonable."

"We are losing all degree of sanity in dealing with the situation," Conway said.

The St. Louis Democrat was successful in introducing the reenactment of a measure which protects homing pigeons involved in races. Hunting such birds would be a misdemeanor under the provisions.

Also approved by the Senate Tuesday was an amendment which includes the word "hand" in the section of the law which specifies which parts of the body may not be contacted in deviant sexual conduct crimes.

One senator said the provision would make it unlawful for conduct some have alleged occurs in massage parlors in the state.

In the House:

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Language in the state constitution which calls for segregation in public schools would be eliminated under a proposed constitutional change tentatively approved by the Missouri House Tuesday.

That chamber also gave preliminary approval to a constitutional change which would allow municipal utilites to join forces with one another to combine operations with private utilitity companies to provide customers with power.

The language which provides for segregation between white and black students, although meaningless as a result of a 1954 U. S. Supreme Court decision, remains in Missouri's Constitution.

"It doesn't belong there," Rep. Wayne Goode, D-Normandy, sponsor of the change, said. "It's an embarrassment to the state."

Even though the Senate gave unanimous approval to a similar measure, there were a few scattered "no" votes which echoed through the 163-member chamber when the voice vote was taken on the measure.

The House also killed a proposal which would have raised the school tax levy that can only be approved by a majority vote to $6 per $100 assessed valuation and another that would have permitted general obligation bond issues to be approved by four-sevenths majority rather than the present two-thirds.

Approval of the municipal utility bill came only after the entire House reconsidered and then defeated a move to limit the combination agreements to private utilities.

Rep. Alvin Waits, D-Independence, sponsor of the resolution, said the private utilities objected to individual cooperative efforts among municipalities because private companies wanted to avoid the competition that would result if several cities joined together to build a joint power plant.

Rep. Marvin Maloney, D-Napoleon, said he saw no reason to "restrict municipal utilites from cooperating with other municipal utilities to lower our utility bills."

Waits said a compromise attempt will be made when the measure reaches the Senate.

Despite efforts by House Speaker Richard Rabbitt to accept the reduction from two-thirds to four-sevenths on the bond proposal, the House rejected the measure, with opponents claiming the two-thirds should be retained because normal voting levels aren't usually met when general obligation bonds are up for approval.

Rabbitt said the reduction measure was "vital to the economy of this state" since many neighboring states now allow passage of the bonds with less than Missouri's two-thirds requirement.

Opponents argued a small minority might be able to push through a bond issue without general voter approval.

Court reform plan in assembly again

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Although two major attempts to revise Missouri's court system might face voters in upcoming elections, a legislative version of the court reform plan is snaking its way through the General Assembly once again.

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. Maurice Schecter of St. Louis, was passed last month in the Senate for the second consecutive year.

Several meetings have been held in recent years throughout the state by members of the legislautre, Schecter said, to reflect their opnions on what needs to be done with the state's courts

The proposed constitutional change, which, if adopted by the General Assembly, must then be approved by the state's voters, makes its most dramatic changes in the magistrate court system.

Magistrate and probate court judges would become associate circuit court judges under the porposal in the same manner in which circuit court judges now are selected. They would take on additonal work assigned to them by the circuit judges.

Members of the House committee hearing the bill Tuesday night objected to this delegation of authority.

Rep. Mark Youngdahl, D-St. Joseph, said he thought such power shifting might be abused by some circuit judges.

"What if a circuit court judge saw a murder trial coming up for hearing and he wanted to play golf that day? Is he going to be able to give it to the associate circuit judge?" Youngdahl asked.

The plan would also allow the establishment of a small claims court if the General Assembly passes a law authorizing it.

A bill which does that is currently pending in the Senate, with a committee hearing scheduled for next week.

Chief Justice of the state Supreme Court Robert Seiler spoke before the House Judicary Committee Tuesday night, saying some of the provisions would overload the justices's current work.

The proposed changes would take effect Jan. 1, 1979 if approved by all those necessary for adoption.

It would establish a three-level court system in an attempt to modernize and streamline the court working operations. Included in the tier system would be an appeals, circuit and Surpeme Court level.

Schecter said he was anxious for rapid approval of the measure in the House in order that both houses can get together soon in conference sessions to negotiate their differences.

Kiwanians hear about new plant construction

W. E. "Bull" Wilson of Blount Brothers Corporation, general contractors for the Associated Electric Cooperative New Madrid Power Plant, spoke Tuesday night to Kiwanis Club at the El Capri Restaurant.

Wilson told about the construction of the plant and showed slides of the progress.

He said the company had 29 permanent employes and about one-third of them live in the Sikeston community.

Blount Brothers started their corporation in 1946 with two bulldozers and now are one of the largest contractors in the country with their home office in Montgomery, Ala.

Guests of the Kiwanians were Tom Harrell, Chris Wren both of the Blount Corp. and Carl Meredith.

odor, flies, fires, rats, dogs and possibly human scavengers, he added.

However, Burris said the spreading and compacting of the waste is being accomplished quite well, even though the single operator with the one machine has all he can do to get that much done.

He said it appears that the real problem with this landfill is a mater of economics. The county claims it does not have the money to do everything that is required. That can be understood, Burris said, since the court chooses not to charge the haulers who dump their trash there, but it appears the court has failed to realize that public funds are in fact subsidizing private haulers who use the landfill.

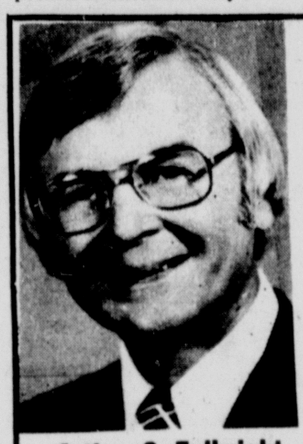

It is not a bad idea to let county residents who haul their own refuse to dump free, Burris suggested, but the bulk of the waste comes from trash collecting companies who are in the business to make profit, and the money they save by dumping free goes into their pockets and not the county's.

Most landfills charge 50 cents to $1 per cubic yard for disposal. If the county would start charging commercial establishments and cities even the lesser amount of 50 cents per cubic yard and still allow the private individual to dump free, this could become a more self-sustaining operation. Another man and machine could probably then be hired and the waste could be covered daily.

The county residents would then get their money's worth by having a sanitary landfill and not an open, smelly, polluting dump, Burris said.

Another item that must be addressed at this time, he continued in the letter, is the leachate that is seeping out the lower end of the landfill. The original plans call for a catch basin. To date, this has not been constructed and contamination is getting into the creek that flows off the landfill sight. The catch basin and treatment facilities will have to be constructed or the county could be held responsible for polluting waters of the state.

The last item mentioned was the severe erosion in the old fill area. This will have to be recovered and should be planted with some kind of grass to stabilize the soil, Burris said.

Scott City to enforce new water ordinance

SCOTT CITY — Scott City residents delinquent in paying their water bills may start finding themselves without service.

The City Council decided Monday night to strictly enforce an ordinance that says if payment of water bills is not made within 20 days of the billing date, service can be disconnected. There will be a $2 charge for the first reconnection, and a $4 charge for the same service thereafter.

City workmen were instructed to begin cutting off those people delinquent from February bills as of Tuesday.

There was lengthy discussion on the city's dog program problems, during which Wes Page, police judge, said some people receiving summonses for allowing dogs to run loose are now showing up in court to pay their fines. He was told when this happens, an arrest warrant should be issued and served on the offender.

Joe Bellis made a motion that the council consider hiring a full-time city employe whose duties would also be part-time dog catcher.

The present city dog officer handles those duties on a part-time basis, with his pay based on the number of animals he apprehends. A committee was appointed to study Bellis' suggestion.

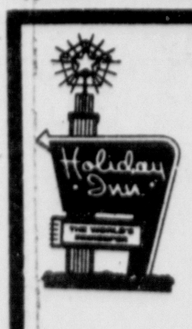

Smitten- Winters Co. of Sikeston will be paid $4,375.02 to provide a new pump for the city's sewer and water facilities, and bids to provide workmen's compensation for city employes will be opened during a special council session Monday at 6 p.m.

A bid for core drilling at the installation site of the recently-purchased 100,000- gallon water tank was awarded A & H Engineer Corp. of Carbondale, Ill., at an estimated job cost of $900 to $1,000. John Mathes Engineers of Columbia, Ill., estimated the job cost at $1,484 to $1,500.

The council will discuss a required preliminary proposal plan for the tank, which will then be sent to the Department of Natural Resources.

City Engineer Robert Harrison estimated his work on the project to cost $2,000. The council said it will ask Harrison to provide a detailed cost breakdown of expenditures.

Mayro James Cauble and Harrison met recently with Raymond Eifert, Illmo mayor, and other officials of that city about disagreements with certain portions of the proposed combined sewer studies for the two towns. Illmo's city engineer agreed to draw up a new proposal for consideration.

Mazambique declares war

MAPUTO, Mozambique (AP) — The Communist-backed government of Mozambique declared today that a "state of war" exists with Rhodesia. It announced it has sealed off its 800-mile border with the white-ruled nation. Share prices on the London stock exchange immediately dropped.

However, it was not immediately clear whether Mozambique had declared war on Rhodesia, a breakaway British colony, or whether it was simply putting the nation on a war footing. Last week, Rhodesian forces went into "hot pursuit" after some of the thousands of African guerrillas infiltrating frrom the Mozambique border.

The "state of war" declaration came in an impassioned speecn by Marxist President Samora Machel from the presidential palace. The speech was broadcast by Mozambique Radio.

The bearded, 42-year-old Machel said all Rhodesian property and assets in Mozambique would be seized, all communications with Rhodesia cut and Mozambique would apply full economic sanctions against its white-ruled neighbor.

The closure of the border, gateway for 40 per cent of landlocked Rhodesia's imports and exports, is expected to have a serious impact on Rhodesia's already ailing economy.

Machel urged Mozambique's 8.5 million impoverished people to prepare for war and begin building air raid shelters in every village.

He called on socialist nations to aid Mozambique in its time of need. The reference was apparently to the Soviet Union and China, which both support Machel's revolutionary Marxist regime.

An estimated force of 3,000 black nationalist guerrillas from Rhodesia have been massing on Mozambique's border for the past two months for a full assault across the frontier. Another 10,000 African guerrillas have been reported training in camps in Tanzania, preparing to join the units on the border.

Machel leads a 10,000-man army of his own, veterans of a 10-year-old guerrilla war of liberation against the colonial forces of Portugal, which granted Mozambique independence last June 25.

He said Rhodesian aircraft attacked the Mozambique village of Pafuri last month and caused extensive damage.

He said ground forces were also involved on the attack on Pafuri which he described as an act of war and a war crime against Mozambique.

The village of Pafuri is in the southwest corner of Mozambique, where its borders converge with Rhodesia and South Africa.

In London, shares of companies with interests in southern Africa were particularly hard hit by the news from Mozambique.

De Beers, the world's largest diamond mining company, dropped to 198 pence compared with 215 earlier in the day and 205 at Tuesday's close.

Charter Consolidated, a holding company with heavy mining interests, dropped to 136 compared with 142 earlier in the day and 137 at Tuesday's close.

An estimated force of 10,000 African guerillas have been reported massing on Mozambiques's border with Rhodesia for the past two months, preparing for a full assault across the frontier.

Mozambique has taken an increasingly militant line on Rhodesia since independence last year, when Machel came to power and installed a Marxist-oriented government after nearly a decade of guerrilla war with colonial Portuguese forces.

The declaration, in a broadcast on Mozambique Radio from Maputo, the capital, follows Rhodesian incursions into Mozambique territory last week in "hot pursuit" operations against infiltrating guerrilla units.

Naylor does it again; Braves win opener

ESSEX — Step right up folks, who'll be next? The Naylor Eagles, unseeded in the Richland High School portion of the Gideon class 1-A regional tournament, turned back the favored Matthews Pirates rather easily Monday night and here Tuesday night had no trouble at all with the fourth seeded Oran Eagles, coming away with an 83-75 victory. In the first game of the night the number one seeded Scott Central Braves ripped the Bell City Cubs 83-61.

Tuesday night it will be the state's number two ranked Scott Central Braves that the Eagles will be running up against and that's exactly what coach Ronnie Cookson's Braves will be doing, trying to run the Eagles down.

Naylor came out against a full court zone press put up by the Oran Eagles and with good ballhandling zipped right through it with ease and worked the ball in under the basket against the Oran man to man defense the entire first half. Naylor scored 55 points in the first half.

Naylor showed a potent offensive attack with good ball handling, and good shooting inside and outside. The Eagles also showed good ability to work the ball inside with good teamwork.

Naylor ran and shot to a 25-17 first period advantage and ripped the Oran defense for 30 more points in the second quarter to lead 55-37 at the half.

Oran came out in the third period with Robert Taylor carrying the bulk of the scoring and ripped off nine straight points but Naylor couldn't be stopped on the other end as Robin Blackwell, Don Brown, Keith Mondy and Joe Crumley kept the pressure on with their scoring.

Blackwell scored 25 points from his guard position and sophomore Don Brown used his 6-4 frame to muscle his way to 21 points. High point player for Oran was Keith Campbell with 27 followed by Robert Taylor with 20.

The Scott Central Braves used their speed and height along with the help of the Bell City Cubs to win their game.

The Braves were having having their troubles shooting and passing the ball in the first period but the Cubs passed enough of their balls to the Braves to help Scott Central to a 44-23 halftime lead.

Guard James Williams, who finally got back into the lineup last week, suffered a foot injury and hobbled through the last three quarters.

Otto Porter scored 35 points for the Braves followed by Ricky Thomas with 25.

Wednesday nights action will pit Scott Central against Naylor at 6:30 and Bernie against Richland at 8:00.

Leopole upends University High

ADVANCE — The Delta Bobcats ripped St. Vincents 80-50 and sixth seeded Leopold surprised third seeded University High 64-61 here Tuesday night in the class 1-A regional tournament.

Leopold's Kevin Beel ripped the nets for 26 points to lead LHS to the victory.

The Wildcats took a 16-15 first period lead but their defense couldn't contain the University High in the second period and the Preps overcome the deficit and forged ahead by three points, 33-30 at the half.

The second half was a nip and tuck affair with Leopold managing to tie the game at 44-44 at the end of the third period. University High wasn't able to keep up with the Wildcats in the last eight minutes.

The Delta Bobcats came out pressing against St. Vincents and put the game out of reach in the first eight minutes of the game, scoring 24 points while holding their opponent to only 10.

Almost everyone for Delta got into the scoring column as David Duncan was high with 16.

Wednesday night Advance battles Chaffee at 6:30 and second seeded Delta plays Leopold at 8:00.

Chargers upset Risco

GIDEON— Delta C-7 got tip-in from sophomore Cookie Rose with eight seconds left to cap a second-half comeback and upset fourth-seeded Risco 61-60 in opening round play of the Gideon Class 1-A Regional Tournament Tuesday night.

In other opening round action, top-seeded North Pemiscot defeated Holcomb 80-68.

The Tigers rode the hot shooting of Dennis Kellick to a big 23-11 lead after the first period, but the Chargers finally got untracked in the second quarter to narrow the lead to eight at the half atr 39-31.

Rose held the hot hand for Delta C-7 in the second half as the Chargers employed a man-to-man press and pulled to within five going into the fourth quarter. In that frame Delta C-7 outscored Risco 16-10, including Rose's tip-in which put the Chargers ahead. Risco called time out with five seconds to go and set up a play, but couldn't put the ball in the hole.

Rose fired in 25 points for the winners, while Keith Ward added 14 and Thomas Mad threw in 12. Dennis Kellick found the range for 25 forRisco, while William Johnson put in eight.

Jerry Stewart of North Pemiscot blistered the nets for 36 points and Danny Robinson added 22 more as North Pemiscot moved into the quarterfinals by beating Holcomb. The Mustangs, winners of last year's regional, jumped ou to an early 18-11 first-quarter lead. Oddly enough Stewart was blanked in the first period, but the big senior heated up to help the Mustangs increase their lead to the final 12-point margin.

Ray Norris and Greg Walls chipped in with 10 points apiece to help out in the winning effort. All five starters finished in double figures for Holcomb, with Lindel Burr and Mike Scott leading the way with 14 apiece. Terry Weaver added 13, Chuck Bulla scored 11 and MikeJarrett added 10.

Quarterfinal round play is scheduled for tonight as North Pemiscot takes on Delta C-7 at 6:30, followed by an 8:00 matchup between Cooter and Clarkton.

Jays win indoor meet; SHS 3rd

By DALE FORBIS

The Charleston Bluejays started their track season with a bang when their mile relay team came from behind to grab a win in the day's final event, giving Charleston an additional six points and first place among the four teams entered in the invitational meet at the SHS fieldhouse. But, the Charleston team members and coaches weren't the only ones to be pleased...

"We've shown the others that we are to be reckoned with," said Al Holmes after the meet.

"We were stronger than I had dared hope for," echoed Tom Horton.

Horton, Holmes, Ford Morgan and Terry Smith coach the Sikeston track team, a group of young and hard-working athletes that pleased a vociferous crowd by finishing a close third place. Cape Central, the leader for most of the day, finished second, a point behind Charleston.

"Put in some good words for Glynn (Felton) and Paul (Bean)," said coach Horton after the meet. "Felton finished just half a second behind Charleston's Ralph Mitchell in the 60. When Bean improves his start, he'll be even tougher in the low hurdles."

Looking at the afternoon's events:

One of the district's finest shot-putters, 270-pound Don Tyes of Caruthersville, put the shot nearly 51 feet while claiming first place in that event. One of few seniors on the SHS track team, Wade Barber, took fifth.

John Holloway, provided Sikeston with several more points.

"It's about time a quality athlete transferred in," noted school principal Robert Buchanan about the talented Holloway. "Most of the time they're moving out."

Holloway, a junior, took first in the high jump event by carding fewer misses at the 6-foot mark. He grabbed four more points by finishing second, behind Charleston's Danny Farmer, in the long jump. Farmer lept 20 feet, three and a half inches. Holloway also ran on a Sikeston relay team.

Craig Littleton claimed first in the pole vault clearing the bar at 11 feet. Attempts at 11-6 failed for the Sikeston junior, but the battling Bulldogs still had six more points in their column---a point column that was adding up swiftly and surprisingly for a team that offered little opposition just a year ago. Now Sikeston was a strong competitor, one to be watched.

Cape Central's Underwood finished first in the two-mile event with a time of 10 minutes, 51 seconds flat. Bulldogs Sam McCord and Kevin Swinney placed third and fifth, respectively.

The 440 was the only event in which Sikeston failed to place. Phil Clark won with a time of 53.4 seconds.

Sophomore Jay Kruger finished fourth in the 65-yard high hurdles. The individual star of the meet, along with Holloway, was Charleston's Kevin Hess, who won both hurdling events. His time of 8.3 seconds was the best in the high hurdles. The Bluejay senior also won the lows, with a time of 7.8 seconds. Paul Bean finished third in the lows.

"Paul has really improved himself," noted Horton.

"He's worked hard."

Ralph Mitchell, a state 100-yard dash champion two years ago, defeated last year's state champion and teammate Clint Clark in the 60-yard dash by just a whisker. Sikeston's fleet sophomore, Felton, finished fifth.

Bulldog John Waltrip paced himself calmly, then blew his opposition off the tartan track in the mile run, winning in four minutes, 48.7 seconds. Daniels of Cape Central was a distant second.

Cape Central's Snyder, however, was more fortunate than his teammate, winning the half-mile run over Sikeston's Mark Boyer. Snyder's time was two minutes, 10 and a half seconds.

Sikeston sprint medley and mile relay teams finished second, behind Cape and Charleston, respectively. And, it was that last win, in the mile relay, that spelled overall victory for the Charleston team.

"All the coaches are really fired up," said Holmes after the inspiring third place finish. "With a little more work...".

Holmes left his statement unfinished. The possibilities for such a young and promising team are encouraging, to say the least.

Jack Buck may again air Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A CBS executive says the replacement of announcer Jack Buck on NBC's weekend "Grandstand" sports show may be a boon to St. Louis Cardinals baseball fans.

"We'd love to have him back," General Manager Robert F. Hyland of KMOX, a CBS radio affiliate, said Tuesday.

"Things are pretty well set for this season, but you just don't know what'll happen," Hyland added. "This came as a complete surprise to us."

Buck, a Cardinal announcer for 22 years, left last fall to join "Grandstand," filling the program's host role on weekends while remaining KMOX sports director.

His place on the NBC program, network Vice President Carl Lindemann said, will be taken over by Lee Leonard, permitting Buck to resume play-by-play duties.

"I'm still obligated to them," said Buck, who has 2½ years remaining on an NBC contract. "I'm going to see my attorney and see how much security is in my NBC contract. Then we'll see about other things."

K- State and Mizzou shoot it out tonight

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State and Missouri, now tied for the Big Eight basketball lead with identical 10-2 conference records, match up tonight in the game that could mean the championship.

The winner can do no worse than tie for the title, and if the Wildcats win they will earn the NCAA Midwest Regional berth reserved for the Big Eight for having beaten the Tigers twice in regular season play.

Missouri by winning would keep alive its chances for the automatic tournament bid which might yet have to be decided by a coin flip or a playoff.

That depends on the outcome of tonight's other games, Oklahoma at Iowa State, Oklahoma State at Colorado and Nebraska at Kansas, and Saturday's final games of the season, Kansas State at Oklahoma State, Kansas at Oklahoma, Iowa State at Nebraska and Colorado at Missouri.

Missouri has won only twice in the last 20 games here, the last time in 1965. The Tigers have not won a conference championship since 1940. The Wildcats have won or shared in the championship nine times since 1959.

Kansas State, 18-6 over-all, has won seven straight since surprising the Tigers at Columbia 85-81 while Missouri, 22-4, has had some close calls, and dropped one to Oklahoma Saturday.

Coach Norm Stewart of the Tigers admits Kansas State has the psychological advantage. "Probably one of the biggest things we have to overcome," he said.

"I don't try to get into that too much," says Coach Jack Hartman of the Wildcats. "All that psychological stuff is for you guys to write about and for the fans to talk about," he told a sportswriter.

Some observers say Missouri peaked too soon and is starting to taper off. Kansas State seems to be following an old tradition of peaking when it counts, down the stretch.

"I'd like to think that is a trademark of my teams," Hartman said.

Said Stewart, "The biggest thing that we'll have to do is simply get our game back together, and play up to our potential."

Tonight will tell.

Sizemore dealt to L.A. for Willie Crawford

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Versatile Ted Sizemore is coming back to the Los Los Angeles Dodgers, who apparently have given up hope that Willie Crawford is the baseball slugger they need.

Crawford, 29, was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday in a straight player swap that continued to show Los Angeles' unhappiness with its 1975 outfield.

Crawford, signed out of high school for $100,000 12 years ago, is a muscular 6-foot-1, 205-pounder who starred in football and track as well as baseball as a prep. But he never reached the potential the Dodgers saw for him.

Sizemore comes back to the city where he broke into the majors in 1969 — the year he hit .271 and was named Rookie of the Year. He left because the Dodgers wanted slugging first baseman Dick Allen badly. And Sizemore played in only 96 games in 1970 because of injuries, yet hit .306.

Since 1971, the 5-foot-10, 165-pound Sizemore has been the Cards' regular second baseman. He has a lifetime batting average of .266.

Crawford has been platooned in right field by the Dodgers the past few years. He has a lifetime batting average of .268 and hit .263 in 124 games last year.

"Having Ted Sizemore on our club gives us excellent protection in many positions," said Dodger vice president Al Campanis.

"He was a catcher throughout his minor league career, but he has also played shortstop, third base and the outfield in the major leagues. "However, the fact that he has outstanding utility value does not preclude the fact that he has a very good opporunity to win a starting job with the club for the 1976 season."

Crawford is the fourth Dodger outfielder to be traded since the end of the 1975 season.

Giants will stay

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The National League has taken the first decisive action of the 1976 major league baseball season — the Giants will stay in San Francisco — but there also are rumors the teams may soon be in spring training.

League owners on Thursday approved the sale of the Giants to San Franciscan Robert Lurie and a partner from Phoenix, Ariz., Bud Herseth. NL President Chub Feeney says the Giants will stay in Candlestick.

Meanwhile, an impasse that has kept all but one major league team from beginning the spring tuneups entered its third day today, threatening to wipe out the first weekend of exhibition season.

But despite some belligerent and pessimistic language in Miami, where owners and players are negotiating, there were indications a settlement was near.

The St. Louis Cardinals rented rooms for their players at the Edgewater Beach Motel in St. Petersburg, Fla., on Tuesday, and they are to report later in the week. The Pittsburgh Pirates ordered their front office personnel to Florida by Friday.

There also were reports that New York Mets General Manager Joe McDonald, who has delayed his arrival at St. Petersburg repeatedly, will arrive at the spring training site Thursday.

The Baltimore Orioles also were reported to be planning to open camp as early as Thursday, and the Atlanta Braves are rumored to be planning a Friday opening of preseason warmups.

These rumors, and others, have led to suspicion that an announcement is forthcoming from Miami negotiators.

The first full weekend of preseason games is scheduled for March 13-14. But a major league rule and the delay of spring training, which was to have opened March 1, has jeopardized those games.

Fieldhouse will open tonight

The Sikeston High School fieldhouse will be open tonight from 7:00 to 9:00 for recreational activity, school officials said.

Admission to the facility will be 50 cents per person.

Hildegard Knef Is a Survivor

By EVE HIGGINS

NEW YORK (AP) — Hildegard Knef's life has been beset with medical problems.

At 50, the Berlin born actress-singer-author has had almost as many surgical operations as years in her life, as well as childhood polio, hepatitis caused by wartime malnutrition and, recently, breast cancer and a radical mastectomy.

Her second book, "The Verdict," describes some of those years, visits to doctors at home and abroad, days in hospitals and nights in clinics.

"But the illness is not the main point," she said in an interview here during a visit to the United States to promote her book. "I've used the illness as a jumping board. The book is about the helplessness of people to help."

Some critics have seen the book as an attack on the medical profession but Miss Knef sees it as an attack on bad attitudes. She has, however, received some mail on the book — some of it anonymous and some signed by doctor's wives. And one doctor she knows has made the book required reading for his medical students.

"He wants them to see that a person lying helpless in a hospital bed is no smaller than a person standing up alongside it, that the patient is just being seen in different perspectives. I always find it disgusting when a person who is physically helpless is treated as though he is almost demented. It makes him even more ill," she said.

"The Verdict" of cancer caused Miss Knef to review her life as pre-verdict and post-verdict, she said.

Curled up on a sofa in her hotel suite here, she told of dropping plans for a novel — "It's easier to write if you aren't the main figure" — because she wanted to make a statement about the inhumanity of some medical attitudes.

"In this book I chucked my vanity — and in the beginning, that wasn't easy," she said.

HILDEGARD KNEF

She has written about doctors who do unnecessary surgery and others who refuse to provide relief from pain, of nurses who chatter about their boyfriends and others who watch television, ignoring their patients.

"Nature gives us such tolerance that we forget how much things hurt once the pain subsides. So I wrote it down while I still remembered," she said.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SIKESTON, STATE OF MISSOURI AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said improvement, in accordance with the plans and specifications necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston.

IMPROVEMENTS CAN BE COSTLY

You can make a million mistakes trying to sell your own home. And one of them is making the wrong improvements. Many times, an expensive addition or repair can be the kind of thing that'll cost you far more than you get back.

True, the house should present a favorable appearance-mowed lawn, trimmed shrubs, and no obvious indications of neglect, but it's rare when a large financial undertaking will bring more than its cost in the final selling price.

There is always the financial risk of miscalculation too. Home repair costs frequently end up a lot higher than originally anticipated. You may end up with a faster sale and less inconvenience if you lower the selling price an equivalent amount.

Instead of guessing as to how much, if any, repair work to undertake, see a Realtor. He can tell you what to do to make your home more salable. And what not to do so you won't lose money.

We take trades, always have. Call us today we will be happy to serve you. Twenty years experience in the house business. Bob Nowell Real Estate and Construction, 471-2774, 471-4459.

Ford's economic advisor to address conference

JEFFERSON CITY -- President Gerald Ford's top economic advisor, Alan Greenspan, will deliver the keynote address at the 18th Annual Missouri Industrial Development Conference March 23 at the Lake of the Ozarks, state officials have announced.

Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, will address community and economic development leaders from around the state at the opening luncheon of the conference at Tan-Tar-A resort near Lake Ozark.

Other scheduled conference speakers include Gov. Christopher S. Bond; Arthur Asel, Kansas City steel works executive and city councilman; and Larry D. Cohick, executive vice president of the American Industrial Development Council.

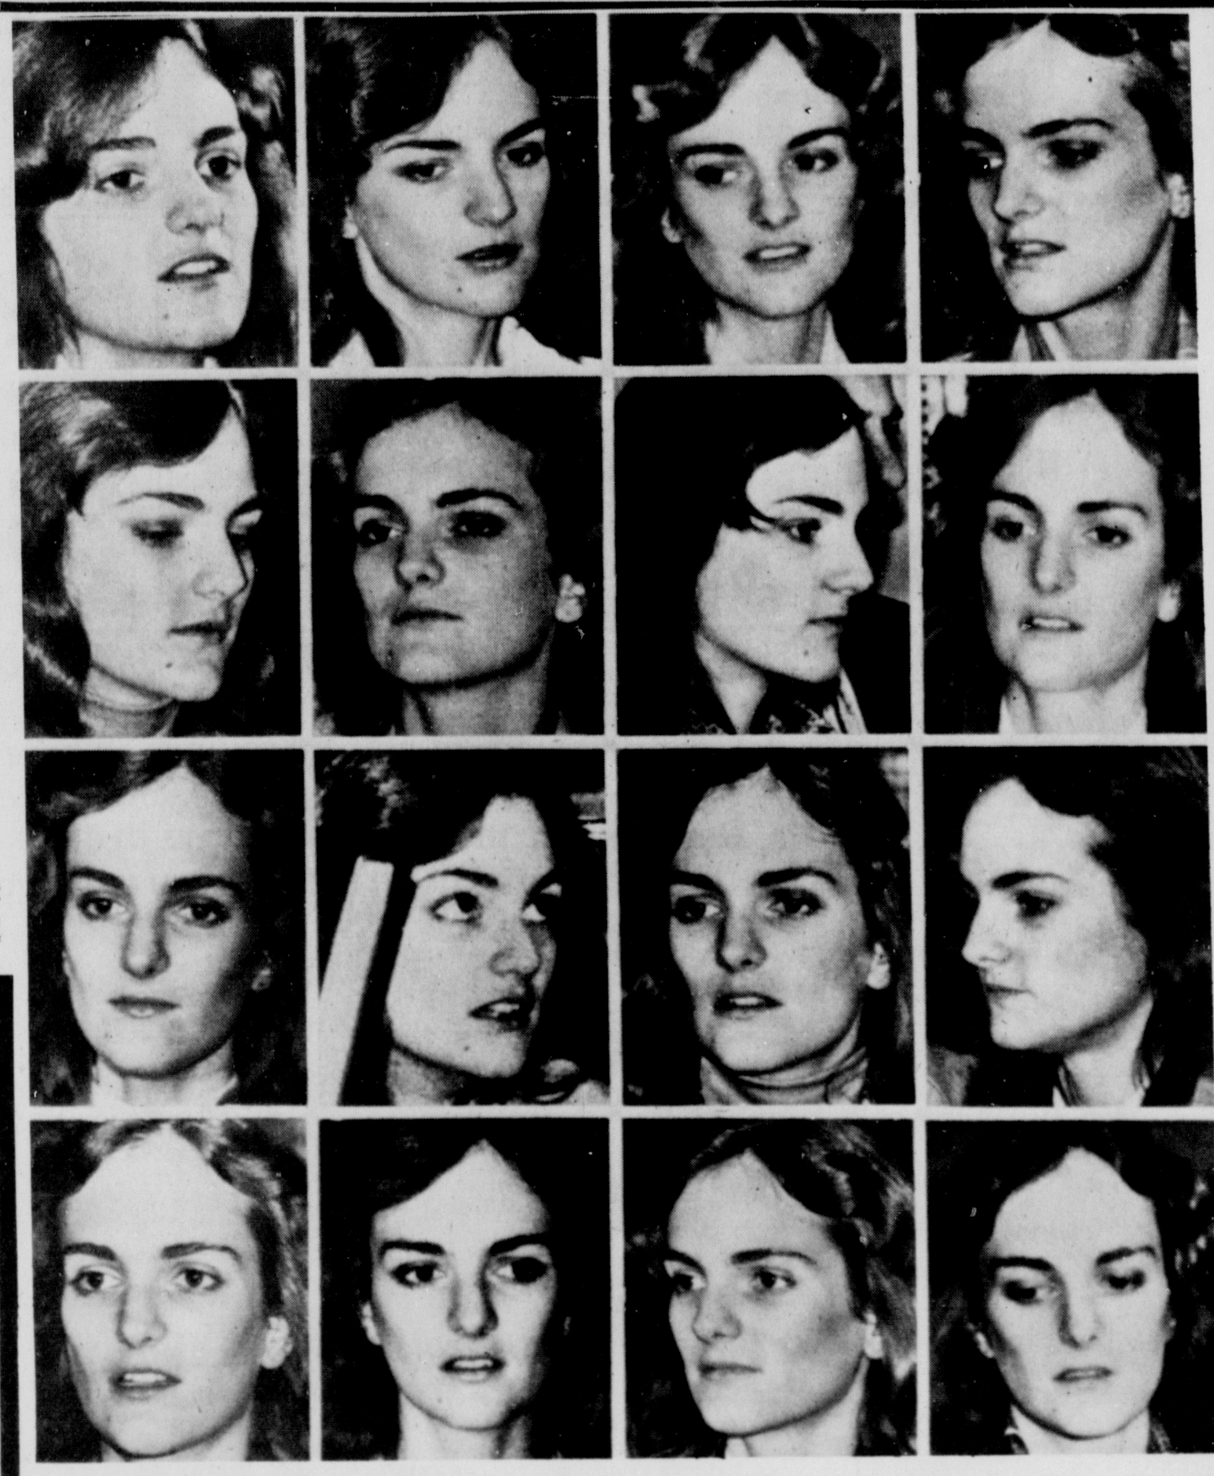

In addition to delivering the traditional governor's banquet address on the evening of March,23, Bond will present awards to several communities, individuals and organization in recognition of outstanding contributions to the state's economic growth during the past year.

Asel, who is assistant works manager of ARMCO Steel Corporation's Kansas City plant, will afford conference attendees a useful dual perspective of business and government "from the inside," officials said. Cohick, former director of industrial development for the CID division, will outline new trends in the development profession.

The two-day conference is being sponsored by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, and element of the Department of the Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, as a public service to Missourians engaged in the promotion of job-creating economic growth on behalf of their communities and regions. Public officials, citizen volunteers and professional industrial developers are welcome.

Bills affecting rape cases come before legislature

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bills affecting the way courts handle rape cases and criminal trials in general come up in the Missouri House this week as the General Assembly marks the midway point of its four-month session.

Still hung up on bills which it has had before it for the first wo months of the session, the Senate will again turn its attention to the 282-page Criminal Code revision.

One House bill, which is patterned after a federal law calling for speedy trials, would go into full effect in 1980 and would require persons charged with a felony to be brought to trial within 60 days of arraignment.

As originally introduced, the bill covering rape cases would have prohibited the introduction of evidence regarding the victim's prior sexual conduct to be used in court cases regarding rape without the evidence first being heard privately by the judge to determine if it is relevant.

The bill was was amended in committee, however, to the point that sponsors said it was worse than the present law, and supporter Jack Buechner, R-Kirkwood, promised a floor fight to resubmit the original bill to the full House.

The House will also be considering a small loan bill, which creates a new category of loans made between $500 and $5,000 for which the borrower would have to pay 18 per cent annual interest.

Currently, loans of more then $500 are covered by the state's usury law, which limits annual interest rates to 10 per cent. The annual interest rate of 26 per cent for loans under $500 will be unaffected by the bill.

Criminal Code revision sponsor Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, had hoped to gain first-round approval of the bill in the Senate this week, so that half of the session would remain for its consideration in the House.

Lengthy debate on the measure last week, along with several amendments to it, delayed tentative approval.

Also awaiting Senate consideration is a bill which would require a $15 payment to the state Revenue Department before a person can gain reinstatement of his driver's license once it has been revoked or suspended.

The Senate is also to consider a measure which would provide that rules and regulations issued by state agencies may be rescinded by a concurrent resolution of both houses of the state Legislature.

The Januay labor force totaled 2,013,100. Employment totaled 1,859,100, and 154,000 were unemployed. In December, 1,898,000 were employed, with 147,100 people unemployed.

Government study reports

Anticrime program fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Violent crime has "considerably worsened" in eight cities that the Nixon administration chose for a multimillion-dollar anticrime program in 1972, a government-funded study reported today.

Evaluators from the Mitre Corp., a private research firm, concluded that the "high impact anticrime program" failed to fulfill the Nixon administration's promise of a 5 per cent reduction in street crimes and burglary within two years in the target cities.

The cities are Atlanta, Baltimore, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Newark, N.J., St. Louis, Mo., and Portland, Ore. They have received $140 million in federal funds for 233 anticrime projects since the program was launched in January 1972.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration operated the program, which ends in December, and paid Mitre $2.4 million to evaluate the results.

The report suggested that it was foolish for administration officials to launch the program with the claim that it would bring about an actual percentage reduction in the crime rate. The promised reductions were not "based on any empirical evidence that could be attained," the report said.

Political pressures to achieve the goal and to get specific projects started quickly hampered the program by discouraging adequate planning, the report said. But some cities were able to overcome the handicap, the researchers noted.

Though concluding that crime rates generally increased, the report said the increase might have been much greater if the program had not been in operation.

The evaluators also concluded that the program gave officials in the eight cities valuable training in planning and carrying out crime-fighting projects.

The evaluators said it's difficult to judge precisely what impact the program had on the cities' crime rates. They based their conclusions on FBI figures for crimes reported to police in those cities, but they cautioned that those statistics "are highly fallible as measures of crime." Most studies show that many crimes are never reported.

Based on the FBI figures for 1968 through 1974, the researchers found:

—"Long-term, generally severe crime-rate increases in Atlanta and Portland."

Dear Consumer

New 'Guide' Will Help U. S. Consumers

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

The Federal Government has an array of agencies and departments that are available to help you. The question is how to find and contact the right one?

The answer is probably in the Guide to Federal Consumer Services—a new directory that the Office of Consumer Affairs has published. It lists all the Federal Government's consumer programs. The Guide gives a description of what the agencies and departments do to help consumers and directs you where to go and whom to write or call if you need help with a particular problem.

The Guide lists 36 departments and agencies in the Federal Government that provide some kind of consumer service:

• If you need more information about banking and financial practices, the Guide recommends contacting the Office of Saver and Consumer Affairs, Federal Reserve System, Washington, D.C. 20551.

• For help with mortgages, the Guide lists the Office of Housing and Urban Affairs, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, as a place to start.

• If you have housing problems or just need more information, the Guide suggests contacting the Special Assistant to the Secretary, Housing and Urban Development Department, Washington, D.C. 20410, for help.

• To answer questions about your Social Security benefits, first call your local Social Security office, listed in your local telephone book. Then, if you still have problems, you can contact the Division of Public Inquiries, Social Security Administration, 6401 Security Blvd., Baltimore, Md. 21235.

For a complete listing of all the Federal agencies that exist to help you, you may want your own copy of the Guide. It is available free by writing to Guide, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Cooking Up

By CHERIE BLANTON

Thanks to some good cooks around town, I have four excellent recipes for you ladies this week.

LAYERED SALAD

Can be made as much as two days in advance.

In a long shallow dish, layer:

1 large head of shredded lettuce
1 bunch of chopped onions, tops also
¼ lb. fresh spinach, shredded
1 box of frozen peas, run water lightly over them to separate
1 pound of cooked bacon, crumbled
7 hard boiled eggs, chopped

Cover completely with this dressing and refrigerate.

2 cups mayonnaise
1 carton sour cream
1 package of Hidden Valley dressing mix.

Mix all ingredients together well.

BANANA BREAD

1 ¾ cup sugar
½ cup melted butter

Blend and add three or four large ripe mashed bananas

Add and stir well:

3 eggs
4 cups flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup chopped nuts
4 Tbsp. sour milk, mixed with 1 tsp. baking soda

Put into greased loaf pans and bake one hour at 375 degrees.

PEA CASSEROLE

1 can small peas
1 can water chestnuts, sliced and drained
1 can mushroom soup
1 cup chopped celery
1 medium onion, chopped
1 chopped green pepper
1 small jar drained pimentos
1 package slivered almonds

Melt a half stick of oleo and saute onion, celery and pepper in it. Add all other ingredients and stir well. Almonds should be sprinkled on the top. Place in casserole dish and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

CHAFING DISH TURKEY

½ cup chopped onion
One third cup butter
¼ cup flour
1 ½ cups turkey or chicken broth
1 ½ cups light cream
2 tsp. salt
dash white pepper
1 tsp. Accent
2 slightly beaten egg yolks
3 cups diced cooked turkey or chicken
1 6-ounce can drained mushrooms
1 small can drained pimentos

Saute onion in butter and blend in flour. Slowly stir in broth and cream and add seasonings. Cook and stir over medium heat till it thickens. Stir small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks. Return to hot mixture; cook and stir over low heat about one minute. Add rest of ingredients and heat til hot. Serve over rice or patty shells.

February weather brings talk

By HUELL E. WARREN
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)— "If we examine weather trends as each season unfolds," a government climatologist wrote last week, "we find that each one is quite different from the normal."

And so was February.

"February has been pretty spectacular," said Dr. Donald Gilman as he scanned charts showing that large parts of the nation have had the warmest or almost the warmest February in the weather records.

Dr. Gilman heads the special National Weather Service team in Washington which makes long-range forecast of what the weather is likely in the next 30 and 90 days, and he did not write the aforementioned assessment.

A weather service colleague in St. Louis had spent a lot of figure work on data which tended to show when Februaries are as mild as 1976's they are likely to be followed by Marches which are normal, which can be mean, by severe shortages of moisture during the first six months of the year and by scorching hot summers.

Dr. Gilman was by no means ready to go that far on what will happen in the next six months.

The 30-day forecast issued Friday said March temperatures probably will average above normal from the central and southern great plains to the middle and south Atlantic coasts. For March through May, temperatures are expected to be above normal in most of the area east of the Rockies and south of Chicago.

Missouri and the eastern one third Kansas are in the area where the outlook is for more precipitation than normal, but it apparently will continue dry in western Kansas, Oklahoma and most of Nebraska.

Government meterologists agreed February has been one of the moldest ever for most of the country, particularly since a cold air mass which had built up in Canada did not sag as deeply southward over the weekend as it might have.

It was a repeat of a pattern which recurred during the month after an outbreak of intendse cold the first few days.

"Two things happened, and they happened suddenly," Dr. Gilman said.

"A disturbance moved down the West Coast to southern California touching off the heavy and persistent rains so badly needed after their long siege of drought. At the same time, another disturbance churned up in the Bering Sea."

This unusual storm pattern brought a strong flow of westerly and southwesterly winds across the United States, and it had a tendency to grow stronger day after day.

"There was a big burst of warm air, and it was a large scale thing," Dr. Gilman said. "The longer it lasted, the stronger it got."

The strong wind flow kept cold northern air from moving south, and many parts of the area from the Rockies eastward and from the Gulf well toward the northern border of the country will have had their warmest February on record.

Two weekends ago, much of the western two-thirds of Kansas and parts of Nebraska and Iowa were paralyzed by eight-and 10-foot snow drifts. But winds up to 80 miles an hour scoured the two to five inches of actual snowfall off the dusty fields where it was needed, and in two days it was so warm again that even the drifts had disappeared.

One of the extreme measurements of the phenomena, in Missouri and Kansas, was the 84 degrees at Wichita on Feb. 9, the highest ever recorded there in February. Temperatures in the 80s were common in western Kansas for several days and temperatures in Missouri ran 15 to 18 degrees above normal.

As nice as this spring in February has felt, it is part of a dire picture.

Not since dust bowl days have warm, dry weather and high winds inflicted so much damage on the winter wheat crop in western and south-central Kansas and nearby parts of Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado.

The soil is dry all over Kansas and in most of Missouri, and planting time is approaching for summer crops.

From the last week of 1975 through Feb. 15, Dodge City in southwest Kansas had not had more than a trace of moisture. Although it normally gets little in this period, even from heavy snows, it was seven-tenths of an inch below normal.

Concordia had had two-tenths of an inch and was nine-tenths behind its 30-year average. Goodland had measured four-tenths and was one-tenth behind. Topeka had had half an inch and was an inch behind. Wichita had one barely measurable rain and was 1.2 inches behind.

Rare film footage collected

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to believe, but there's film footage of the pandemonium that followed the fatal shooting of President William McKinley at the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo, N.Y., in 1901.

Not only that, there's some equally rare footage of his successor — Theodore Roosevelt — attending McKinley's funeral in Ohio, according to Mert Koplin and Charles Grinker. And they should know.

Since 1963, they've run a small company here which specializes in making programs that use both obscure and familiar film footage of major and minor events and newsmakers of the 20th century.

And they'll be using the McKinley and Roosevelt footage in one of their four TV specials about 20th century U.S. presidents, first ladies, vice-presidents and assorted minor-party candidates for the presidency.

Their one-hour programs, bankrolled by Scripps-Howard Broadcasting Co. and Post-Newsweek Stations, Inc., are being syndicated for showing by TV stations around the nation in April, May, June and July.

For Koplin and Grinker, co-directors of the Corporation for Entertainment and Learning, Inc., unearthing rare or unusual historical film is a labor of love, as well as profit.

As Koplin puts it, "We're doing for a living what we enjoy as a hobby."

For competitive reasons, they aren't too specific about whence their more unusual antique footage comes.

But they will point to companies owning old newsreel films, the National Archives, the Library of Congress, various state and county museums and historical societies as good sources of the rare or unusual.

And occasionally they get a tip about a garage somewhere that holds, say, 15 cans of President Calvin Coolidge going about his business.

A key element in their work is the use of newsreel "outtakes," material edited from what audiences once saw in movie theaters.

Citing newsreel footage of the late, flamboyant Gov. Huey Long of Louisiana as an example, Grinker says the idea "is not to use the same five pieces that have been used in every documentary about him for the past 20 years.

YOUR SAFETY I.Q.

1. When an electric fuse blows, you should:
   A. Check circuit for overloading, and cords and appliances for excessive wear or shorts.
   B. Substitute a penny, metal washer or wad of tinfoil for the fuse.
   C. Call an electrician.
2. If a skillet overheats and the grease catches fire, you should:
   A. Douse the fire with water.
   B. Cover the skillet with a tight-fitting lid.
   C. Apply a liberal amount of baking soda or salt.

ANSWERS

1. A. Trouble probably lies in overloaded circuit or defective cords or appliances. Disconnect appliances or lamps on the circuit. If fuse continues to blow, call an electrician.
2. B. or C. A liberal application of baking soda or salt extinguishes the flame. A tight-fitting cover will do a good job if it can be found in time. Never pour water on a burning grease fire.

Washington report

Nuclear proliferation control pursued

By SEN. STUART SYMINGTON

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Today, more than 50 nations have nuclear reactors; and in addition to the six nations which have already exploded nuclar devices, some 30 more of thesee countries would appear to possess the capability to construct such nuclear weapons.

The acquisition of such weapons by many more nations, perhaps by unstable governments in various areas of the world, poses a potentially insurmountable obstacle to any true world peace effort.

However, there is no reason the possessor of a nuclear weapon need be a nation. The growing world-wide spread of nuclear technology and fuel has greatly increased the chances of theft of nuclear weapons and materials by terrorist or criminal elements.

Accordingly, effective control of both the materials and technology for the manufacture of nuclear weapons would appear to be the single most important issue which faces the security and peace of the world today.

Now what can be done?

That question has been the primary subject of recent hearings before the subcommittee on arms control of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

As presented in these hearings, the United States and six of the world's other leading exporters of nuclear technology have been meeting in London to discuss what can be done in effort to insure that all nuclear materials supplied to other nations are used for peaceful purposes only.

The subcommittee, which I chair, heard Fred C. Ickle, director of the American Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and George S. Vest, director of the Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs of the Department of State, testify that the nuclear exporters had made progress in developing long-needed safeguards and controls on nuclear materials.

They further stated that in effort to halt the spread of nuclear weapons while allowing nuclear exports of equipment to meet the world's growing energy needs, the supplier nations agreed that before other nations receive nuclear facilities, they must:

-- Apply internationally accepted safeguards on the nuclear materials and facilities they receive.

-- Give assurances not to use nuclear imports to make nuclear explosives for any purpose.

--Provide adequate security to prevent the sabotage or theft of nuclare materials.

--Demand identical assurances from third nations before retransferring any of the nuclear imports they receive.

There are still many unanswered questions as to the strength and effectiveness of the provisions of his multi-nation agreement, and our subcommittee plans to continue its investigation of agreements and other aspects of this growing nuclear proliferation problem.

The purported agreement of these nuclear exporters is far from the final answer to controlling both the sprad and the misuse of nuclear technology. But it is a step in the right direction.

Only through meaningful international cooperation can we hope to control this proliferation, the greatest single threat to the future of the people on this earth.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. authorized to file for rate increase

JEFFERSON CITY — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has been authorized by the Missouri Public Service Commission to file rates for new switching systems and related equipment with the condition that the rates may be adjusted following hearings.

The rates will apply to new installations of Southwestern Bell's Dimension 100 and Dimension 400 systems for the use of businesses and other large telephone customers. Present customers using PBX (private branch exchange) equipment would continue to be charged at existing rates.

The commission said that if, after hearings, the rates are found to be unreasonably high, any excess will be refunded to the customers using the system. If the rates are found to be too low, the commission said, adjustments will be made to the company's revenues to prevent the loss on the system from being subsidized by other customers of Southwestern Bell.

The rates will be allowed to go into effect, the commission said, because some telephone customers wish to have the dimension equipment installed.

Hearings on the rates will begin on March 4 at 10 a.m. in the commission hearing room on the 10th floor of the Jefferson Building. The hearings had earlier been set for Jan. 15 but were postponed.

Five years ago: Severe fighting broke out again in southern Laos, and eight U.S. helicopters were reported shot down.

One year ago: West Germany capitulated to the demands of the kidnapers of Christian Democratic party Peter Lorenz and flew five radicals from prison to the Middle East country of Yemen, but the hostage was not released.

Today's birthdays: Retired General Alfred Gruenther is 77.

3 accused of fraud

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Three men accused of defrauding a mother of $30,000 by telling her they could arrange the release of her son from a Mexican prison are to be arraigned in U.S. District Court here.

An indictment charges the men knew at the time they took the money that the woman's son had been killed in a plane crash.

William Donald Wilkins of Acuff, Tex., was to be arraigned today on charges of conspiracy, interstate transportation in execution of a scheme and unlawful use of the telephone in connection with the scheme.

Wilkins' son, Shawn Michael, 26, of Memphis, Tenn., and Roger Vince Allmon, 29, also of Memphis, are scheduled for arraignment on similar charges next Monday.

The indictment charges that the younger Wilkins and Allmon contacted Mrs. Bethel Lester Frame of Cooter, Mo., last February and told her they needed $5,000 to locate her son, Walter, who was supposedly being held in a Mexican prison.

A month later, the indictment said, Mrs. Frame was told her son had been located but that $25,000 more was needed to secure his release.

Federal authorities said her son had been killed in an airplane accident in Texas before the scheme was put into effect. He was killed when his twin-engine plane hit a tree at high speed, authorities said.

Charges against each man carry a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a $21,000 fine.

Dr. Lamb

Stomach has protective lining

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About three times a week I take a spoonful of Metamucil and I find if I don't wash the glass and spoon right away it leaves a slimy surface on the glass and it takes hot water to get it off. I wonder if it could coat my stomach and intestines so I could not get the good from my food. I don't take any other laxatives and the Metamucil works fine.

DEAR READER — No, it won't hurt you a bit. Your entire digestive system is constantly forming secretions that bathe its surface. Your stomach already has a layer of thick mucus over its surface which would make what you are talking about on your glass look like nothing at all. That mucus surface protects the stomach cells for its own acid digestive juice.

The lining of your intestine is shed and replaced as often as every three days. The lining incidentally is digested and absorbed for food for your body so you don't lose energy or important proteins this way.

Metamucil is a good bulk expander and isn't harmful. I do hope, however, that you include in your diet enough bulk and particularly cereal fiber from whole wheat products. If you use enough of that or bran or bran buds you may not need Metamucil to provide bulk for you.

Those wanting information on controlling constipation can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 2-1, Irritable Colon and Constipation. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was so delighted to have your article stating that oysters do not have a high cholesterol count. I called a dietician at the hospital where I had been a patient and she said I could also have shrimp, lobster and crab. I've no idea where her information comes from and I hope it's true, although since you didn't mention the other shellfish I'm rather skeptical.

There are two diets I'm supposed to follow, a low cholesterol and low sugar or starch diet because I'm hypoglycemic. However, the cholesterol diet is of first priority. Do you have any recent information regarding this particular diet? I know there must be a great number of people who have this same dietary problem.

DEAR READER — You should be skeptical. You can eat almost any food if you limit the amount depending on what other items you include in your diet and still have a low cholesterol intake.

Oysters are relatively low-fat, low-cholesterol foods based on the most recent findings which replace older values that listed them as high-fat, high-cholesterol foods.

Portageville council passes zoning ordinance

PORTAGEVILLE — The City Council Monday night authorized a street name to be changed, passed a city zoning ordinance and gave permission for additional volunteer firemen to be trained.

City Attorney Charles Spitler was instructed to prepare ordinances to change the name of the street from Foster Drive to Stafford Drive. There has been confusion concerning Foster Drive as it appears to be an extension of Stafford Drive and there is also another street designated Foster Street.

A city zoning ordinance regulating the construction and repair of homes within the city was passed. The ordinance will require that building construction and repair be inspected at different stages.

City Clerk George Vogel said that a book containing the regulations will be printed for distribution to builders, contractors and lumber companies. In the meantime he said contractors may obtain information at the city hall concerning the zoning regulations.

Permission was granted to the fire department to organize an auxiliary of no more than five persons to be trained as volunteer firemen.

To prevent congestion of spectators at fires the council passed a motion that anyone interfering with the fire department by going to, in, or around a fire will be given a ticket by the police department.

A list of names was compiled by the council to present to New Madrid County Court for it's consideration in selecting judges and clerks for the April 6 election.

Vogel reported that the city has received $7,287 from the Missouri Division of Highway Safety for participation in the Federal Aid Safer Roads Demonstration Program. The funds will be used for the erection of 215 traffic control signs that comply with the nation wide uniformity standards for traffic control and signs.

Case of the headless goalie

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Herbie was playing for his high school soccer team when the name of the game suddenly changed from soccer to sock him. An opposing player, chasing the ball, kicked poor Herbie in the head just as Herbie caught the ball in the penalty area in front of the goal.

Since contact in the penalty area, under the circumstances that it occurred, was strictly forbidden by fixed safety rules set for the game, when Herbie's eyes stopped spinning around, he sued the other player for his injuries.

"While everyone's heard of the Headless Horseman," Herbie told the judge, "for a while there, I thought I was going to be the Headless Goalie. Violating the safety rules and kicking me in the head was pure carelessness."

"I wasn't careless," was the defense. "I was overenthusiastic. Since accidents happen in sports, the case should e dismissed."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you dismiss Headless Herbie's case against the other player?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a soccer player can be held liable for damages when he violates a safety rule of the game that results in injury to another player. If an athlete's wilful or deliberate conduct causes harm to another athlete, or if the harm results from his reckless disregard for the other athlete's safety, noted the judge, he should be held responsible for the consequences.

Based upon a 1975 Illinois App. Ct. Decision)

The status of the new car continues to decline. The Conference Board observes. Some 22 per cent of all households owned a new automobile (less than a year old) in the late 1960s; the figure dropped to 15 per cent in 1973.
